Royal is entitled to go forward with the trial of this case on October 10, the date this Court set more than two years ago. We firmly disagree with Wells Fargo's ongoing efforts to delay the trial (reiterated again this morning in its letter to the Court), but will not debate the issue further in correspondence to the Court. Its suggestion today that Royal should first seek to collect from other wrongdoers before trying the claims against Wells Fargo only confirms the impropriety of any delay. However, Royal requests guidance from the Court as promptly as possible as to how to address the contents of the Pre-Trial Order in light of the conflicting demands and filings of Wells Fargo. We are available for a conference with the Court any day other than Friday, September 21.

Respectfully,

/s/ Philip Trainer, Jr.
